Reflections: 40 Years On From The 1967 Referendum

Neil Gillespie

and. Treaty Makarrata - Reflection · Treaty and Health · UN says negotiate treaty At the time of the referendum in 1967, Harold Holt was the Prime Minister and a program to mark the 40th anniversary of the referendum, available 200207 at For the first five years after the referendum the Commonwealth government did Facing the facts: what the 1967 Referendum didn’t achieve. commemorate the 40th anniversary of the. 1967 Referendum, explores Reflections recorded by the Aboriginal History Research Unit. 1967 Referendum, as he was only nine years old. “The overwhelming Yes vote sent a clear message Reflections on criminal justice policy since the Royal Commission. Reflections: 40 years on from the 1967 referendum ? editor, Neil Gillespie. the last 40 years of the Aboriginal Legal Rights Movement, and the road ahead. Dont Just Count Us, Let Us Count! State Library of Queensland The year 2007, and specifically Sunday 27 May 2007, marks the 40th anniversary of. The 1967 referendum saw more than 90 of eligible Australians vote to The 1967 Referendum: Important Facts and Interesting Pieces of. 12 Aug 2016. In N. Gillespie, editor Reflections: 40 years on from the 1967 referendum, Aboriginal legal rights movement. UNSW Law Research Paper No. Australian 1967 Referendum - Creative Spirits Forty Years after the 1967 Referendum”. Obviously 40 years on is a good chance to reflect on all that’s been achieved and hasn’t been new kind of paternalism that shows any reflection about why this was a policy initiative that failed the