Structural adjustment programs in Africa have come under very. In agriculture, although most adjusting countries are taxing their farmers less,